Panel 1: First Contact

Astronaut Alex stands proudly on the red, rocky surface of a mysterious alien planet, his futuristic spaceship in the background. He takes a deep breath, ready for a momentous occasion.

Caption: The silence of the crimson desert is broken only by the hiss of a pressurized landing gear.

Humanity has finally reached the stars, and Captain Alex stands ready to make history. Clutching his chest, he whispers to himself, "This is it, Alex. One small step for you, one giant leap for your acting career."

Panel 2: The Grand Overture

Alex begins his speech, gesturing grandly with one hand. His visor is slightly open, revealing a determined smile as he addresses the vast, empty landscape, believing he's speaking to unseen aliens.

Caption: A dramatic wind blows red dust across the barren canyon.

Clearing his throat, Alex projects his voice to the empty hills with theatrical flair. "People of this glorious world, I bring you greetings from Earth, a beacon of peace, wisdom, and advanced civilization!"

Panel 3: Unseen Audience

Alex continues his eloquent speech about peace and friendship, unaware that several small, curious alien figures are peeking out from behind a jagged rock formation, observing him intently with slightly amused expressions.

Caption: Whispers and muffled giggles echo from the shadows of a nearby crater.

Alex continues his grand monologue, completely oblivious to the three-eyed creatures snickering behind a jagged boulder. "We offer you our technology, our art, and our hearts in eternal friendship!"

Panel 4: The Interruption

Mid-sentence, Alex is abruptly interrupted by one of the aliens, who has stepped forward and is now looking up at him expectantly, holding what looks like a rudimentary tablet displaying a Wi-Fi symbol.

Caption: A soft, electronic beep interrupts the grand speech.

A tiny, purple alien steps out, holding up a crude stone slab flashing a glowing blue Wi-Fi icon. The creature squeaks in perfect English, "Yeah, that's great, big guy, but what is the password for the NASA-Secure network?"

Panel 5: The Awkward Truth

Alex stands dumbfounded, his grand mission deflated, as the aliens explain they've been watching Earth's internet for years. He clutches his helmet, realizing the true nature of their 'first contact'.

Caption: The crushing weight of embarrassment descends upon the red planet.

Alex clutches his helmet in sheer disbelief as his grand dreams of first contact instantly evaporate. The alien shrugs and says, "We do not want your wisdom, we just need to stream the new season of our favorite Earth reality show."
